The Funniest Thing on Record

During an excursion from Pittsburgh, while at Cleveland the Keenard House was crowded, when a druggist appeared late at night at the hotel office and demanded a bed. The clerk replied that there were only two vacant beds in the house, one where-in was quartered a Pittsburgh morning newspaper man, and the other a Pittsburgh evening newspaper man, who were with the excursion.

"To tell the truth, they are both pretty drunk; so you may take your choice as to which room you will sleep in."

The druggist said he would take his chances with the evening newspaper man, as he would doubtless be so drunk that he would be quiet all night. He went to bed, and was soon sound asleep. The journalist, however, awakened about 12 o'clock, and, thinking it a long time between drinks, dressed himself, unconsciously, in the druggist's clothes, and called out. Ever and anon he muttered as he treated all present: "Funniest thing I ever heard of. When I went to bed last night I only had twenty-five cents to my name, and now I've got over $100 (showing a corpulent roll of bills), and I'm bound to spend every cent of it before morning." He did.—[Pittsburgh Post.]

An Old Man Like An Old Wagon

A medical man compares an old man to an old wagon. With light loading and careful usage it will last for years, but one heavy load or sudden strain will break it and ruin it forever. Many people reach the age of fifty or sixty or seventy measurably free from most of the pains and infirmities of age, cheery in heart and sound in health, ripe in wisdom and experience, with sympathies mellowed by age, and with reasonable powers and opportunities for continued usefulness in the world for a considerable time. Let such persons be thankful, but let them also be careful. An old constitution is like an old bow—broken with ease, mended with difficulty. A young tree bends to the gale; an old one snaps and falls before the blast. A single hard lift, an hour of heating work, an evening of exposure to rain or damp, a severe chill, an excess of food, the unusual indulgence of an appetite or passion, a sudden fit of anger, an improper dose of medicine—any of these or similar things may cut off a valuable life in an hour, and leave the fair hopes of usefulness and enjoyment but a shambled wreck.

Tobacco Cure.

Mr. W. H. Curtis, of Hominy, informs us that for some year he has been subject to the most violent attacks of neuralgia in the head, at times almost driving him mad. A few days ago he had another attack, which if anything, was more severe than any previous, and it lasted several days and nights. His remedy was quinine in heavy doses, which he again tried, but so soon as the effect of quinine was off his pain returned seemingly with increased intensity. Finally recollecting relative to Clingman's Tobacco Cure, he got him a few leaves, dipped them in hot water, and bandaged his head with them and in two minutes was entirely relieved, slept well all night, and has not felt the slightest touch of pain since. He is naturally very happy over the trial and its result, and a firm believer in the efficacy of tobacco as a curative agent.—[Ashville (N. C.) Citizen.]

A New Orleans doctor calls attention to a very simple fact which merits attention from medicine takers. If the medicine is mixed with very cold water, and a few swallow of the water he taken as a preparatory dose, the nerves of the organ of taste become sufficiently benumbed to make the medicine nearly tasteless. The method will not disguise bitter tastes, but acts well in oils and salines.

A New York physician claims to have discovered that deafness generally has its origin in the mouth, instead of in the ears, as most people suppose. He thinks it is often caused by carious, crowded and displaced teeth, and he has a collection of about five hundred cases of the interior of the mouth, which, he alleges, go to prove his assertion.

Moustaches on clergymen's faces are condemned by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Gridley. To give potency to the voice of the pulpit, the lips should be uncovered. If the ox that treads out the corn should not be outzled, he submits that the month should enjoy equal freedom in the preaching.

Statistics show that both in Europe and America scarlet fever is more destructive of life than cholera.

DR. BOSANKO.

This name has become so familiar with the most of people throughout the United States that it is hardly necessary to state that he is the originator of the great Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup, the people's favorite remedy, wherever known, for Coughs, Colds, Consumption and all affections of the Throat and Lungs. Price 50 cents and $1.00 sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—Master Sam B. Harris gave an oyster supper to a party of friends Saturday night.

—A light snow fall Sunday night painted the town white for awhile and made sleighing good Monday.

—The many smiling faces Saturday indicated that a great many valentines had been received.

—The colored people held an indignation meeting at the court-house Saturday night at which they protested against the lawlessness of their race and appointed special policemen for "Battle Row" and "Duncantown."

—Duncan Ross, the celebrated athlete, tried to intimidate John Marrs, the clerk at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at Louisville the other day but was compelled to "crawl" when John showed a pistol down in his face. John is a Lancaster boy and not likely to be bullied.

—The hop given by the German Club at their hall last Friday evening was well attended and a success in every way. Wolf & Frost furnished the delightful music they are so noted for and the "lads and lassies" kept the dancing up until 3 o'clock Saturday morning. The strangers present were: Mrs. Will B. Robinson, Misses Salie McRoberts, Sophie and Salie Bright, of Danville, and Misses Jessie Hemphill and Mary Annie Wilmore, of Nicholasville.

—Misses Mary Anna Wilmore and Jessie Hemphill, of Nicholasville, were visiting Miss Mamie Olds last week. Miss Salie B. McRoberts, of Danville, was visiting Miss Bertie Collier, Friday. Miss Scott, of Jessamine county, is a guest of Miss Lizzie Mason. Miss Lillie Noel has returned from Nashville. Miss Lula Sandusky returned to her home at Windom, Ky. Sunday. Sam M. Anderson and O. H. Irvine of Louisville, are visiting relatives at this place. Col. W. S. Miller and Mr. J. J. Walker went to Louisville Monday. Hugh Logan, of Cincinnati, is home for a few days.

Buggy Riding Made Easy.

A Williamsport genius claims to have invented a buggy that, like the boy's whistle, goes itself. That is, it doesn't require a horse to make it go. It is furnished with two upright levers in front of the seat, by means of which the rider can propel it with great ease six or seven miles an hour. If he has a feminine partner, he can use one lever and she the other. If the weather on a scenery is delightful, the riders can be as deliberate as they please. They can stop to rest, if they want to, under a big shade tree without being compelled to pull at the bit of an impatient horse or make themselves horse shooting "whos" to him. The new buggy won't scare and run away, wrecking itself and ruining the feathers and finery of its fair occupant. And there is no horse with eyes to see and give away any trifling imperfections that may be indulged in. As to cheepers, the new buggy doesn't eat, doesn't have to be rubbed down four times a day, doesn't want a new set of blankets every fall, and new harness and whip once a year. In short, the cost of the buggy, which is about that of a modern bicycle, is all the outlay required.

It is evident from this description that the Williamsport invention fills a long-felt want. When the new buggy has become popularized everybody will ride, of course, and liveries and stable keepers with their vocation hills will go out of fashion. Romeo and Juliet, as they take their daily drive in the park, each working a lever of the new vehicle, will be taking practical lessons in the art of working in matrimonial harmony. If any would be Juliet should prove to be a work her lever, Romeo would understand at once that he had better be looking for a new Juliet with a more industrious turn of mind. The ordinary riders will ride for pleasure and as slow or as fast as their muscles and surplus energy dictate, instead of feeling compelled, as now, to drive like Jehu in order to get their money's worth out of a hired horse or team.

The only drawback to this delightful picture of a possible era in which everybody can take buggy rides to his heart's content, is the fact that the inventor has only perfected one of these self-acting buggies and charges an admission fee of 25 cents to all who want to see it.—[Philadelphia Times.]

—A. J. Mansford, a young man living at Warren Fork, Pulaski county, fatally shot Jim Mulaney, a notorious desperado. The affair occurred while a dance was in progress at Mansford's house. He claims the shooting was in self defense. Mulaney was a notorious character, being fresh from the penitentiary for the killing of Wm. Durham in 1881. He has nine brothers, all except one equally hard as himself. At one time six of the brothers were serving sentences at Frankfort.

—The Versailles and Midway Railroad Company was organized last week and will at once commence the construction of a line from Versailles to Midway and Georgetown. The cost is estimated at $300,000. The Board has been organized with Mr. W. Henry Graddy as President; Mr. Thos. J. Hays as Vice President, and Robert Wallace, Secretary.

—Narragansett Bay is frozen over from Newport to Providence, R. I.

Toys.

There is nothing too high for the aspirations of man's ingenuity, they say, and surely there is nothing too insignificant. How much ingenuity of hand and brain is yearly expended on toys, merely to please the imaginations of children? Insignificant indeed! Turn back to your own childhood and the delight you then felt at sight of the toy horse or the big rag doll with eyes and nose marked with a charcoal, and call it insignificant if you can. Ah, me! the big rag doll, how you loved it and took it to bed with you and trotted it up and down on your knee, and thought nothing was half so nice. To day your children carry something around in dainty apparel, with poney eyes staring wide and real hair done up in the most approved style. And such a wardrobe; morning, dinner and evening dresses of silk and lace, and you think of the old fashioned purple calico dress and brown cap that somebody's doll used to wear and get thoughtful. There is generally a grandmother now, as then, to make doll dresses and spoil her pet grandchild. I feel sorry for little children who haven't a grandmother, especially on Christmas. Mother is too busy for such things, but grandmother is not, and renews her youth in her little "Polly," her namesake at her knee. How she loves that child, the withered old woman! How she would fain stretch out her old arms and ward off all sorrow from that young life, all disappointment, and atrewe there only flowers of happiness. The one prayer of her heart is: oh, let her be happy, Heavenly Father! Poor old grandmother! in her love and anxiety she forgets that the cross comes before, not after the crown. SWEL.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR FRIENDS.—When I was a boy my mother used to say to me sometimes, "De Witt, you will be sorry for that when I am gone." And I remember just how she looked, sitting there with cap, and spectacles and the old bible in her lap and she never said a truer thing than that, for I have often been sorry since. Well, we have our friends with us as we are unguarded things that wound the feelings of those to whom we ought to give nothing but kindness. After awhile some of our friends will be taken away from us and those who are left say: "Oh, if we could only get back those unkind words—those unkind words—if we could only recall them!" But you cannot get them back. You might bow down over the grave of that loved one and cry, and cry, and cry. The white lips would make no answer. Take care of your friends while you have them. Shut up all those words that have a sting in them, in a dark cave from which they will never come forth. If you do not you will be sorry some day.—[Evangelist.]

When a Greek immigrant was searched in New York recently, he was found to be armed with a weapon which looked like a large ivory-handled jack knife. When examined a pistol hammer was discovered on one side. This, when pulled up, threw out a trigger on the other side. As soon as the pistol was discharged a four-inch blade ran out ready for use. It is supposed that the man got his idea of life in this country from reading Chicago papers.

—Senator Hoar and representative Long peremptorily declined to attend the Harvard Club dinner and reunion at Wornley's Hotel, Wednesday night, on account of the exclusion of Richard Greener and another mulatto graduate by a formal vote of the club.

Landlady: "Did you like the turkey we had yesterday, Mr. Smith?" Mr. Smith: "Did I like him? Yes indeed; why, I loved him! I used to think when I was a little child that perhaps, after all, I should live the longest, and the thought made me sad."

The free translations of the "Arabian Nights" by Payne sell for $250 each. They are said to be absolutely indecent to place. If they were pure and moral they would probably bring $5 apiece.

Scorpions when in great apparent danger subside by stinging themselves. When young they live upon the back of their mother, eating her back until she expires.

There is trouble in the Congregational church at East New York over a Scotch deacon who, to help aid a church fair, consented to dance the Highland fling.

A Working Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes, "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles I found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite and again in the flush of 18 pounds." —Christman & Ross have shipped 1,400,000 pounds of tobacco from this place, for which they have realized a good price.

—Mr. Elliot, you are a little mistaken about the ground hog telling a lie. Judging from the weather we have had he must have told the truth.

—All those knowing themselves indebted to C. B. Engleman will find it to their interest to come forward and settle as their accounts will be put in the hands of an officer.

—One of our citizens who invested in the lottery was made to feel happy by a bogus telegram the boys put up on him stating that he had drawn $1,000. Captain H. says he felt good for once in his life.

—It is daily expected that some little boys here will be killed by the cars. They are in the habit of jumping on the trains while they are switching and jumping from car to car. Their parents ought to look into the matter.

—Enoch Wearen has gone west to grow up with the country. Mrs. J. C. Gentry, Mr. Jim Gentry and Miss Lillie McClary, of Lincoln, are the guests of Mrs. C. Shumate. Mr. H. H. Gentry has gone to Dripping Springs to take charge of Mr. D. G. Slaughter's store at that place.

Judge Savage, Commonwealth's Attorney Kenner and Jacob Eamon, the committee appointed by the citizens of Ashland to visit Governor Knott and ask him not to commute the sentence of Wm. Neal, the last of the Ashland murderers, have returned home. They say that Gov. Knott assured them that he would not interfere with Neal's sentence; that five jurors had pronounced him guilty after a patient hearing of the facts and that in the face of all this he could not and would not interfere in Neal's behalf. Neal will doubtless be executed February 27th.

Parson Wandoodle Dixter distinguished himself once more at the funeral of an aged colored man: "Our deceased brother was married four times during his life," said Wandoodle, "but only one of his widows was so fortunate as to be able to survive him long enough to be present on his death solemn occasion."

"What one Girl D'd" is the title of a story in an exchange. We haven't read it, but it is safe to wager that if she went to the rink and put on skates for the first time what she did to sit down two or three times unexpectedly.—[Norristown Herald.]

The house in which Hon. Jeff Davis was born, at Fairview, Kentucky, was recently sold to Mr. T. J. Smith for $665. The homestead consisted of about eight acres. The rest of the farm was sold to different parties in lots of ten acres.—[Carliale Mercury.]

Mrs. Dudley: You have been convicted of the crime of assault with intent to kill one O'Donovan Esq. The sentence of the Court is that you be removed hence to a shooting gallery, and there be kept at hard practice for three months.—[St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

According to reports an application of gun cotton has been made in such a manner that it will evidently supersede the use of steam for the purpose of light locomotion and driving small machinery.

Oil from Nature's Wells.

The skin on the head is kept soft and flexible by a secretion from the oil glands. When these are clogged the hair dries and falls out. Parker's Hair Balsam restores their action, restores the original color to the hair and makes it soft and glossy. It also eradicates dandruff. Not greasy, not a dye, deliciously perfumed. Delightful for a lady's toilet. The best of dressings. Preferable to all similar remedies because of its superior cleanliness and purity.

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently caused by a mass of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. It is, however, a condition of indigestion and constipation, a sluggishness of the stomach, etc. A good laxative, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and affording a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.
